TWO WHEELS... Jack Brunner, 1961 California Racing Association champ from Gardena, looks like he is about ready to flip in recent Ascot Park race. Brunner righted car safely and will be in field with more than 40 ace drivers competing in Wednesday night's Memorial Day 100-lap big car sprint race on the half-mile Ascot oval.

Two Local Riders Vie In Ascot Cycle Program

Torrance riders Bennie Sims and Bob Bailey will be in the record field of nearly 150 riders who will compete in the 15 event steeplechase motorcycle racing program Tuesday night as Ascot Park in Gardena. The first race is at 8:30 p.m.

Sims, who missed the last steeplechase race due to injuries suffered in a spill during a Friday night flat track race, will compete in the expert division against the top riders in the nation headed by national champion Dick Dorresteyn of San Pablo.

Bailey, a novice rider, is currently in third position in the season standings behind the sensational novice pair Guy Louis and Eddie Mulder. Mulder is the point leader with 208 points; Louis has 202 and Bailey 129.

THE THREE division program finds the experts going 15 laps, the amateurs 10 and the novices eight laps in their respective main events.

Ascot stages its annual "Tribute to Indianapolis" the following night, Memorial Day, as the thrilling California Racing Assn. big sprint cars salute more than 10 of their former drivers with a 100-lap speedfest under the aers.

First race is at 8:30, time trials at 7 p.m.

North Presents Athlete of Year At Award Fete

Charles Coker, the popular coach of the Southern California Striders, will be guest speaker at the annual North High Sports Banquet Tuesday in the North Cafeterium.

Awards will be given out to the most vaubie players of each sport; football, cross-country, basketball, wrestling, baseball, tennis, track and gymnastics. Other awards will be given for the Most Inspirational Player in football the Letterman of the Year, and the most coveted trophy of all, the Senior Athlete of the Year. Prices are $1 for the athletes and $1.75 for their guests.

TARTAR BEE NABS SIXTH IN FINALS

Garry Barron, North pole vaulter, sailed over the bar at 12-0 Friday night to gain a fifth place tie in the CEE division of the CIF Finals at Mount San Antonio College.

Winning height for the Cee event was 12-8, and although Barron has climbed over 12 feet this season, his final mark bettered his qualifying height by six inches.

Torrance's only other entry in the finals, Tartar Bee 660 man Larry Parker, managed a sixth place as Chaffey speed merchant Rick Williams won the event with what surely would have been record time had not an error been made in measuring the distance.

Williams was clocked in 1:19.8, a full second under the CIF standard, but the track was found to be 10 yards short and the thletes had run only 650 yards.

Parker finished in 1:22.0, only a yard behind the fifth place man. Starting off slowly, the Tartar sophomore began to move in the backstretch, and the 10 yards lost might have given him fifth place since he was gaining on the top men in the final yards.

TORRANCE mentor Joe Sarthou figures Parker would have run a 1:23.2 over the regulation distance, almost a second under his previous best.

One national mark was broken in the meet as San Bernardino and favored Glendale Hoover knotted for top team honors with 16 points apiece.

TOM HESTER, San Berdo whiz, ran the 180 low hurdles in 18.3 to crack the national mark of 18.4 set last year by East Bakersfield's Billy Mackey.

As expected, Hoover's Forrest Beatty won both dashes, taking the century in 9.5 and streaking the furlong in 20.4 seconds.

The Fearless Spectator

By Charles McCabe, Esquire

The moral rehabilitation of Sonny Liston, the pugilist and two-time loser, has gone quite far enough for me, thank you.

Sonny, who wants to yank the heavyweight crown from the heroic brow of Floyd Patterson, was reported the other day as giving serious thought to becoming a Roman Catholic priest.

The Hearst chain's Albany, N. Y., newspaper, The Knickerbocker News, quoted Liston: "I don't know if I got it to be a priest, but I'm thinking about it."

When the story got out, Liston was quick to deny it. "I couldn't become a priest," he said, "I'm a married man."

Sonny's awareness that Catholic priesthood entails a vow of chastity gratified those of his admirers who are aware he just learned to sign his name about a year ago.

Though Sonny quite properly balks at investiture in the clergy, he said he is all for helping the Church to rehabilitate kids by giving boxing exhibitions and talks.

The moral rehabilitation of Sonny Liston is no laughing matter. His upcoming match with Champ Patterson is expected to produce a gate estimated at between $4 million and $7 million.

So if you read an increasing number of stories wherein the ex-con suddenly sounds like St. Francis Assisi, just render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's.

Sonny is not without experience in the rehabilitation bit. It's how he got into boxing, in fact.

Back in 1952, when Sonny was doing 29 months in Missouri State Penitentiary for armed robbery, he was taught boxing. His skill attracted the attention of the Catholic chaplain, Father Alois Stevens, who took on his rehabilitation. Sonny was paroled in custody of the priest.

Sonny turned out such a formidable fighter that it was hard to get fights for him—though he did score six straight wins in a single year, 1955-56.

Father Stevens went a bit sour on Sonny when, in 1956, he assaulted a St. Louis policeman, took the officer's gun away from him, fled the scene and hid the gun at his sister's house.

The case did not come to trial until December, 1956, when Liston was sentenced to nine months in the workhouse. Between arrest and conviction he was arrested four more times—for speeding, failing to answer the summons and twice on suspicion of theft. After investigation, the theft charges were dropped.

Undaunted by Sonny's previous rehabilitation, another Catholic priest, Father Edward J. Murphy of Denver, took him on about a year ago and taught him to read and write. He also pronounced him officially rehabilitated.

Who can say? Perhaps this time it's all true, and Sonny is as morally laundered as a newborn babe. All those visions of money dancing before Sonny's eyes are pretty good motivation for him to keep his nose clean until he glauoms onto it.

What is a mite annoying about all this is using the one, holy, Catholic and Apostolic Church as a stalking horse to promote a dubious prize fight.

Traditionally, prize fight press agents get away with even more ruddy murder than their fellow space grabbers—partly because they have plenty of expensive fight ducats to dispense.

But when Mr. Liston can be placed, even if innocently, in a position of denying that he's thinking of becoming a priest, we are either in Wonderland with Alice or in Florence with Machiavelli.

This religious rehabilitation jazz, in its context, is about as chic as a Holy Water font in a brothel.
